Hillary Clinton's new book about her failed 2016 campaign is chock-full of plenty of revelations regarding her 2016 election loss, with her touting the pop culture "bromance" of "Game of Thrones" in addition to claiming she's still trying to figure out why Donald Trump actually won the White House. According to an interview with GQ, the 2016 Democratic nominee spoke about her post-election "bromance" with Robert De Niro, who asked why she didn't make a "lighter" showing during her race against Trump. "I had done 'Wag the Dog,'" she said, referring to the fake movie she made about a political war. "There was 'Sideways.' There was a lot of lighter stuff than the tough stuff. And I wasn't firing on all cylinders. I gave a good speech. But the press blamed me for getting too emotional, which is obviously ridiculous." She also spoke about how Trump may have been a bit of a "mirror image" of his business partner, Billy Bush, saying that "[h]is vanity was sort of like my naïveté." When asked who would win in a "real fight," a clear split between the two political heavyweights was immediately evident, with Trump pointing to Clinton's various attacks on his character. "I have a great respect for her because she's so strong in so many ways. I think she has a lot
