If you have stock, you know how important it is to be able to change over your horses feed and ration. Traditional feed bags were designed for horses, not cattle. Here are a few things to consider if you're looking to work with heavy equipment, cattle, and horses that are all different sizes and shapes. Offering training in the science and art of horsemanship for horse lovers of all levels, the process starts with a thorough general overview of the horse, followed by the training of the riding positions. This includes riding and driving, western riding, western dressage, reining, eventing and dressage. The programs also offer lessons in showing jumping and dressage, and dressage clinics for those who have not yet developed a firm foundation in this important and rewarding discipline. The origins of the English Sadler's Company are unclear but during the Middle Ages the company owned and trained around 500 horses and was further protected by a charter from Henry II in 1188 which required him to provide a penny per ton on top of the licence tax in an attempt to protect the company. This would have amounted to 80-100 pounds sterling at today's money.

Training the horse for the show ring begins with incorporating safety, picking up and removing objects from the ground, head-to-head turns and side-by-side turns, uneven terrain, obstacles, and all four gaits. Show horses typically receive three months of training and it should be tailored to the type of competition the horse will be entered in. In general, you should gradually increase the distance and gait combinations until the horse is consistently performing all of the requirements of the show. Every horse can show differently and you should only work on what they seem to do best. This is not a science, but an art, and you need to develop a feel for the horse and shouldn't need to waste your time with horses who don't seem to be working out. A natural horse should start moving in balance and symmetry, have a light, relaxed hindlimb and a strong, high-stepping forelimb. A horse performing well in a show should be able to come in and jump the fences without hesitation and should be balanced and symmetrical. Your work should be an expression of a positive attitude, energy, and care should help them to succeed. Some horses are good producers, others are good consumers. If you haven't developed an opinion about how you are going to handle your breeding mare, you might want to spend a little time talking to other people who have (also talk to your veterinarian before you do). You should use protection from pregnancy if you are having sex with your mare when her pregnancy is not completely developed. Here's your chance to up your game.
